Fall Is The Best Time To Improve Your Lawn With An Aeration & Seeding. Schedule Early & Save!

Core Aeration creates small holes (plugs) into your turf which allows deeper penetration of moisture, oxygen, and nutrients encouraging stronger root growth. It also breaks up thatch, which discourages water absorption and root growth. Fall is the best season for lawn renovation because weather conditions are favorable and weed competition is less of a problem than in spring. We complete the process with an over seeding using a custom blend of fine blade fescue. The most important step you can take to ensure a great lawn next year is renovating in the fall.

Lawn aeration has a number of benefits including:

- Relieves soil compaction allowing grass roots to expand
- Increased water, oxygen and nutrient uptake by the grass roots
- Breakdown and decomposition of thatch
- Aerator holes create a moist, protected environment for seedling growth
- Enhanced water infiltration into the soil and to greater depths
- Improved development of roots to greater soil depths
- Prevents the loss of valuable fertilizers due to run off from compacted areas
